HOW DID THE FUND PERFORM LAST YEAR AND WHAT AFFECTED ITS PERFORMANCE?

For the 12-month period ended December 31, 2025, the Fund's Institutional class posted a 8.47% loss trailing the S&P 600 Small Cap Index and S&P 500 Index which rose 6.02% and 17.88%, respectively.

WHAT FACTORS INFLUENCED PERFORMANCE

The Fund's performance was driven by negative returns in specific land companies, which we believe are well-positioned to benefit from infrastructure development related to energy, water and power transmission. However, these companies have legacy energy businesses, which were negatively impacted by materially lower oil prices. The energy exposure is limited to royalties and infrastructure but proved vulnerable to macroeconomic factors. Blockchain and cryptocurrency also detracted modestly from returns, with Bitcoin prices ultimately ending the year lower after making all-time highs in October. These losses were partially offset by exposure to defense and electric utility businesses.

POSITIONING

The portfolio remains focused on companies within the broader universe of high quality, real asset companies within the small capitalization universe. These companies should be resilient to the myriad of potential macroeconomic factors that influence smaller companies. Guided by long-term our value investment philosophy, the Fund may experience periods of outperformance or underperformance relative to the benchmark, but we believe the Fund is well-positioned to generate above-market returns over the long term.

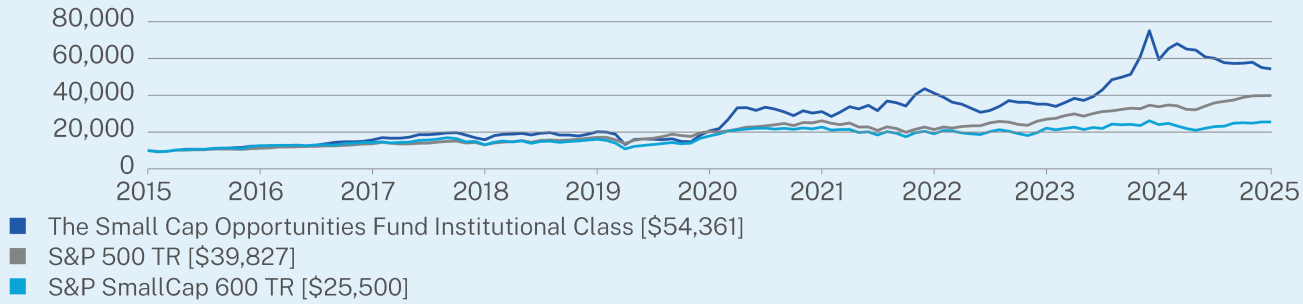

PERFORMANCE

The Fund's top contributor: Security selection within defense, specifically CACI International (Ticker: CACI).
The Fund's top detractor: Security selection within the Energy Sector, specifically Texas Pacific Land Corporation (Ticker: TPL).
